Report on “Blueprint for Daily Health”

Date: 5th December, 2025 (Friday)

Time: 7.00 pm-8.30pm

Event Overview:

The ISTD Chennai Chapter organized a thoughtful and refreshing Virtual Wellness Session on 5th December 2025 titled “Blueprint for Daily Health”. The resource person for the session was Dr. Raghul S, Public Health Specialist from the Port Health Organisation (PHO), Chennai. His session focused on simple, practical habits that anyone can follow to maintain good health and emotional well-being.

Session Insights – Dr. Raghul S :

Dr. Raghul began the session by emphasizing that true daily health is shaped by small, consistent actions, not by extreme diets or occasional efforts. He highlighted that sustainable wellness comes from simple routines that anyone can follow, regardless of age, lifestyle, or busy schedules. From this perspective, he introduced ten fundamental habits that, when practised regularly, can bring remarkable improvements to one’s physical health, emotional balance, and overall quality of life.

He explained that starting the day with a glass of water and a few minutes of light stretching helps awaken the body, improve blood circulation, and prepare the mind for a productive day ahead. Moving forward, he stressed the importance of balanced meals, especially those rich in fruits, vegetables, and natural foods, as these provide essential nutrients that strengthen immunity and support long-term health. Dr. Raghul strongly recommended engaging in at least 30 minutes of physical activity—be it brisk walking, yoga, or simple home exercise to keep the body active, improve heart health, and reduce stress. He also reminded participants to stay properly hydrated throughout the day, explaining that adequate water intake boosts energy, enhances skin health, aids digestion, and supports all bodily functions.

Another important aspect he highlighted was maintaining good personal hygiene. Simple practices such as regular bathing, handwashing, and proper oral care not only prevent infections but also enhance self-confidence and overall well-being. He further emphasized the need to take short breaks from prolonged screen time, especially for those working or studying online. These breaks help reduce eye strain, correct posture, prevent fatigue, and refresh the mind. To support mental wellness, Dr. Raghul recommended daily meditation or deep breathing exercises. Even a few minutes of mindful breathing, he said, can calm the mind, reduce anxiety, and improve focus. He also stressed the importance of 7 - 8 hours of quality sleep every night, noting that good sleep is essential for emotional stability, mental clarity, and physical recovery. Understanding the pressures of modern life, he encouraged everyone to manage stress by pursuing hobbies or relaxation activities such as listening to music, reading, cooking, or spending time in nature. These activities help maintain emotional balance and bring joy into daily life. Finally, he advised participants to stay away from unhealthy habits like excessive junk food, smoking, or overconsumption of caffeine, as these behaviours can negatively impact long-term health and reduce productivity. In today's fast-paced world, where people juggle multiple responsibilities and constant stress, this session served as a reminder to return to the basic simple, mindful, everyday habits that collectively build a healthier, happier life.

Throughout the session, Dr. Raghul maintained a warm, friendly, and encouraging tone, making every point easy to understand and helping participants feel motivated to adopt these healthy practices.

Participant Experience:

Participants shared that they found the session simple, practical, and genuinely helpful. Many appreciated how Dr. Raghul translated everyday actions into meaningful health practices, reminding everyone that wellness is achievable with small and consistent efforts. The interactive nature of the session made it engaging and left participants motivated to adopt healthier routines.

Conclusion:

The “Blueprint for Daily Health” session was highly insightful and served as a gentle reminder that good health is within our control. With easy-to-follow daily habits, the session inspired participants to reflect on their lifestyle and make mindful changes. The ISTD Chennai Chapter continues to deliver valuable and impactful sessions that support the personal and professional well-being of its members.
